4.1 Process Synchronization

A race condition occurs when several processes access and manipulate shared data concurrently and the outcome depends on the order of access. The critical section problem is to design a protocol so that no two processes execute in their critical sections at the same time.

A semaphore is an integer variable accessed only through two atomic operations, wait and signal. Mutex locks are the simplest synchronization tool.